

can't believe that Apolo is almost one year old already! He's been on the move for the past couple of months, crawling everywhere and acting like little tornado in the house. He's starting to pull up on furniture and is experimenting with taking his first steps he hasn't said many words but he knows strategic 'Mama!' will get him what he wants. He seems to really love playing with his big brother and sister, though don't think Babu realizes that they are usually trying to escape from him just for, when
